TAFT AND SHERMAN INAUGURATED

TAFT HONORED AT M'KINLEY HIGH

Portrait Unveiled Following Talk by Mr Scott On President

The High School observed the inauguration of the new President in a very simple manner.

Professor Scott made a brief address to the pupils in which he impressed them with the absolute democracy by which, with hardly any ceremony, one Executive of a world-power steps down from his position and becomes a private citizen and another assumes the responsibility and honor of the position, thus attaining in every way, the Athenian idea of perfect republicanism. He eulogized the ex-President and stated that, if training counts for anything, Taft was well equipped for his duties.

He further remarked on the singular freedom which the Presidency has had from any scandals or undesirable candidates. "It is too bad," he continued, "that the municipal governments are not conducted on a similar basis of political purity and that the term 'politician,' from meaning a close student of politics, has almost become dishonorable."

The exercises closed with the unveiling of a handsome portrait of the new President.

NOTABLE CAREER OF WM. H. TAFT

In Midst of Public Work Since He Started Out In Life

William Howard Taft, President of the United States, is a man of achievements; can point back—should he see fit—to a stainless career. During his long public service, during the campaign for the Presidency, through which he passed successfully, there has been no breath of scandal. He enters the White House today a great American, with every prospect of leaving it a great President. Mr. Taft has been so busy at the tasks set him by his country in recent years that until the campaign began last summer he was little known to his countrymen, except as that far-off and mystic personage who brought order out of chaos in the Philippines, who quieted the storm in Cuba, and who has gone on successfully digging the Panama canal just as if it were an everyday task. But he stands for all that is best in America. He combines in his big person the uncompromising devotion to duty of Washington, the kind heart, humor, and tact of Lincoln, and the fighting qualities of Roosevelt.

Since 1881, soon after he became a graduate of the Cincinnati Law school, Mr. Taft has been constantly in office, with the exception of four years which he devoted to the practice of law, until he resigned from President Roosevelt's cabinet to become the Presidential candidate. Among the offices he has held were judge of the superior court in Cincinnati, solicitor general of the United States, United States circuit judge, civil governor of the Philippines, and secretary of war, any one of which might have been the goal of a man's life. It has been more than whispered that Mr. Taft's ultimate goal was a seat on the bench of the United States Supreme court, for which he has been declared eminently fitted. But twice he has refused this high honor at the hands of the President, although his every inclination was to accept, and both times he has

THE PRESIDENT

WILLIAM H. TAFT
PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES

PLEDGED to REFORMS OF ROOSEVELT

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 4.—Mr. Taft in his inaugural address promises to enforce the reforms initiated by President Roosevelt for the control of corporations and railroads. He suggests that amendments may be made to strengthen the existing laws.

In dealing with the tariff he expressed the hope that there would be a speedy revision. On currency matters, he stated that the country much needs a more elastic currency.

He pledged himself to promote peace at all times but expressed the conviction that the country should be prepared for war and thus best compel peace.

Regulation of Asiatic immigration is favored, the President declaring this may best be brought about by mutual concessions and recognition of treaty rights. The mail subsidies for rebuilding the American merchant marine are favored.

INAUGURAL STORM

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 4.—William H. Taft and James S. Sherman were inaugurated President and Vice President of the United States this forenoon under circumstances that were happy with the one exception of the weather.

All the preparations for the outdoor pageant were upset by the storm that started in last evening with a heavy rain and finished up today in a veritable blizzard, which made an out-of-door inauguration out of the question.

It was necessary to make a complete change in the program and the Senate Chamber was made the scene of the inaugural. Here President Taft took the oath and read his inaugural address. The crowds surrounded the Capitol in spite of the storm and the President was given a great ovation.

TO EXCLUDE ALL

GOOD LECTURE ON AGRICULTURE

Large Attendance Present At First College Series

The interest manifested in the evening lecture course at the College of Hawaii, if one may judge from the audience last night, is very gratifying to those in charge, the subjects presented being "Agricultural Problems of Hawaii" by Dr. E. V. Wilcox, and "Economics of Agricultural Education" by President J. W. Gilmore. Dr. Wilcox, in speaking of the agricultural problems of Hawaii, said the first thing one had to do on en-

SUPERVISORS' MEN WILL NOW BE PAID

Kaleiopo's Enabling Act Goes Through House In A Rush

That hurry-up bill of Kaleiopo's to pay the ousted members of the road department for the two months they have worked and two weeks they haven't, must be immensely important in some way that does not appear on its face, judging from its author's efforts to rush it through.

Kaleiopo called the bill up for final reading as soon as the opening preliminaries of the morning had been disposed of.

But he wasn't quick enough to take his pet bill in before someone had a chance to fire an amendment at it. Kaleiopo had an amendment all ready and he offered it even before Kaleiopo had
